

Unmanned Traffic Management and Landings

Autonomous Aerial Vehicles Workshop

NNF, Marinteknisk Senter, NTNU

Vendela Paxal, R&D Manager, Navigation, Indra Navia AS

indra

15 November 2018

NORWEGIAN TECHNOLOGY HELPING AIRCRAFT TO FLY AND LAND SAFELY ALL AROUND THE WORLD

- GAREX Communication systems
 - NORMARC Navigation systems
 - InNOVA Tower systems
- 200 employees in Asker, Norway
- Daughter company of Indra with 43 000 employees and an income of ~ 3 000 MEUR

Roots in Norway back to 1916

1916: Gustav A. Ring AS
(GAREX)

1918: Norsk
Marconikompani AS (NORMARC)

1989: ATC Division in Norcontrol

1997: merged into
Navia Aviation AS

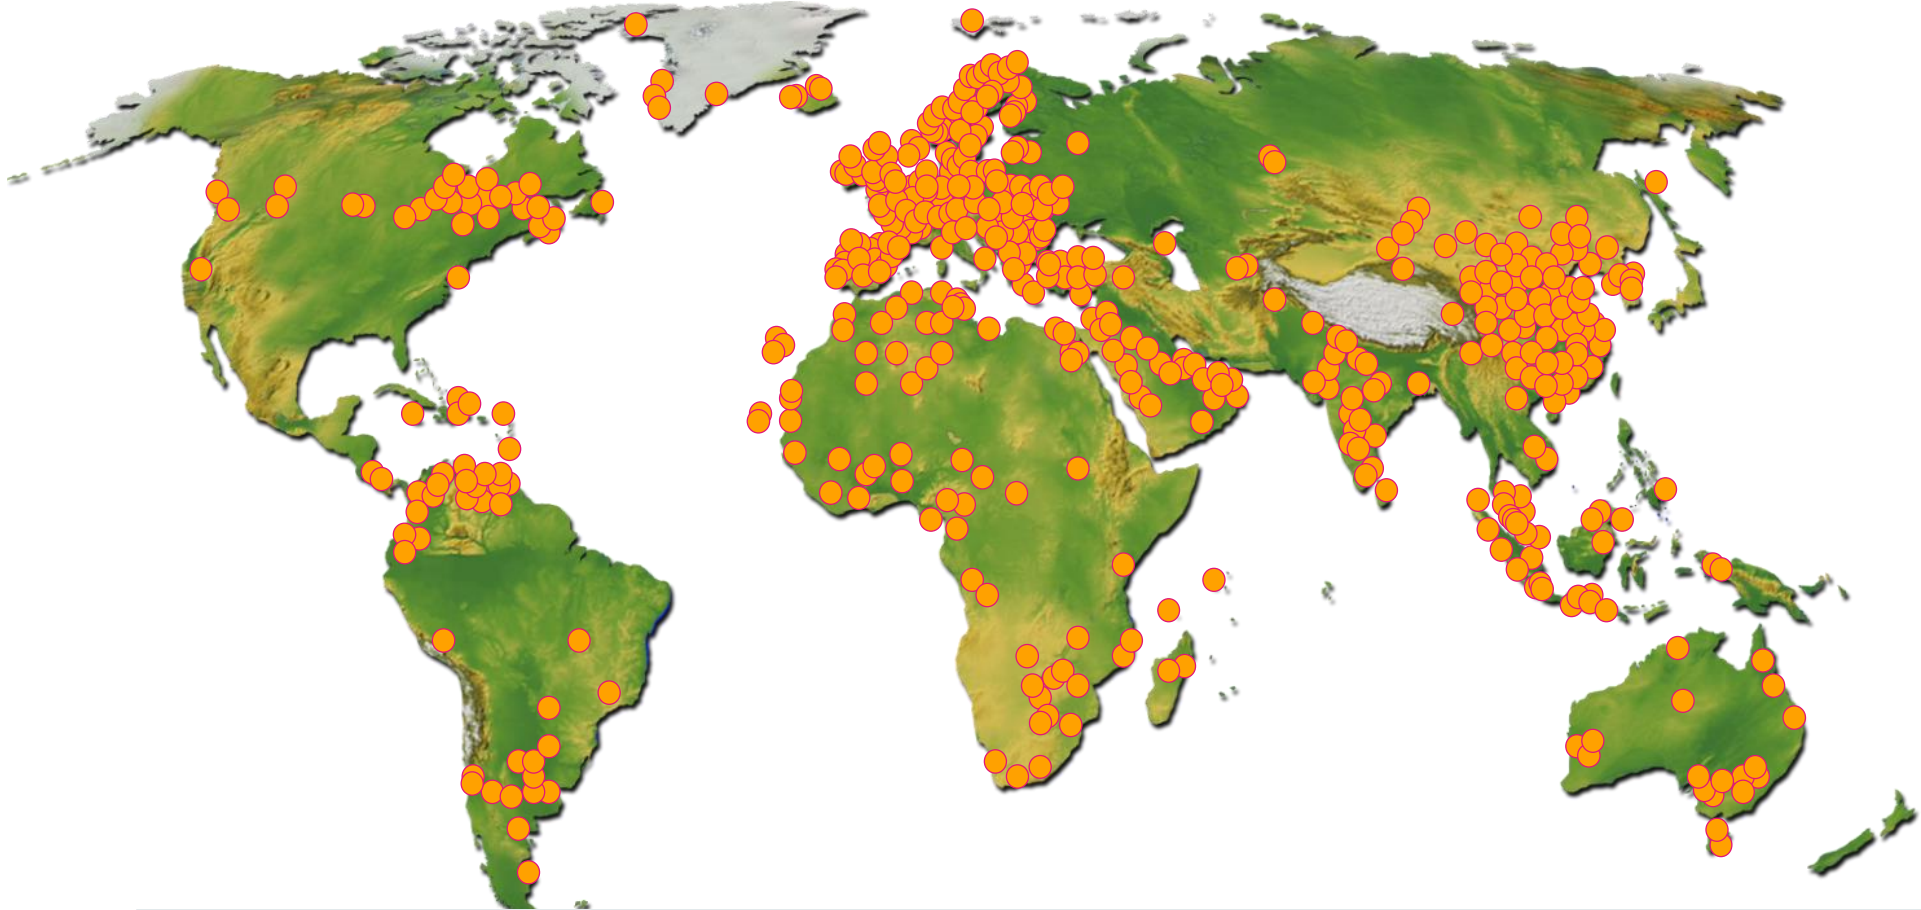

2000: Northrop Grumman
2001: Park Air Systems

2008: Northrop Grumman
Park Air Systems AS

2012: Indra
Navia AS

Indra Navia – Worldwide

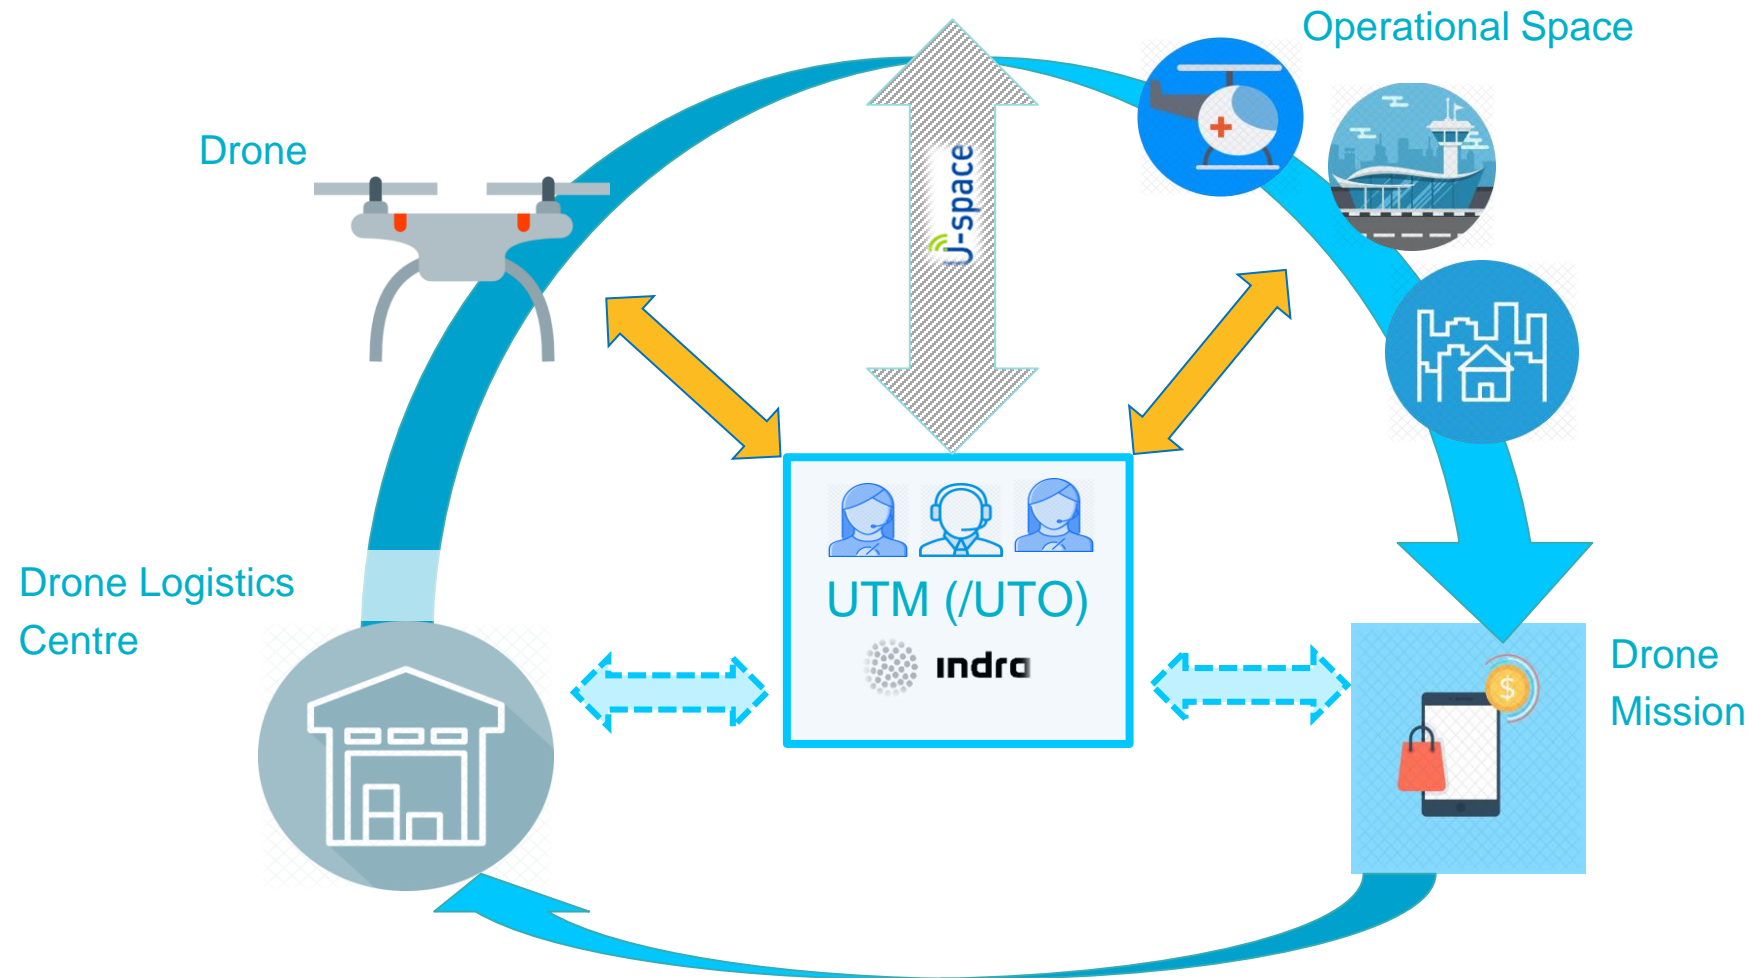

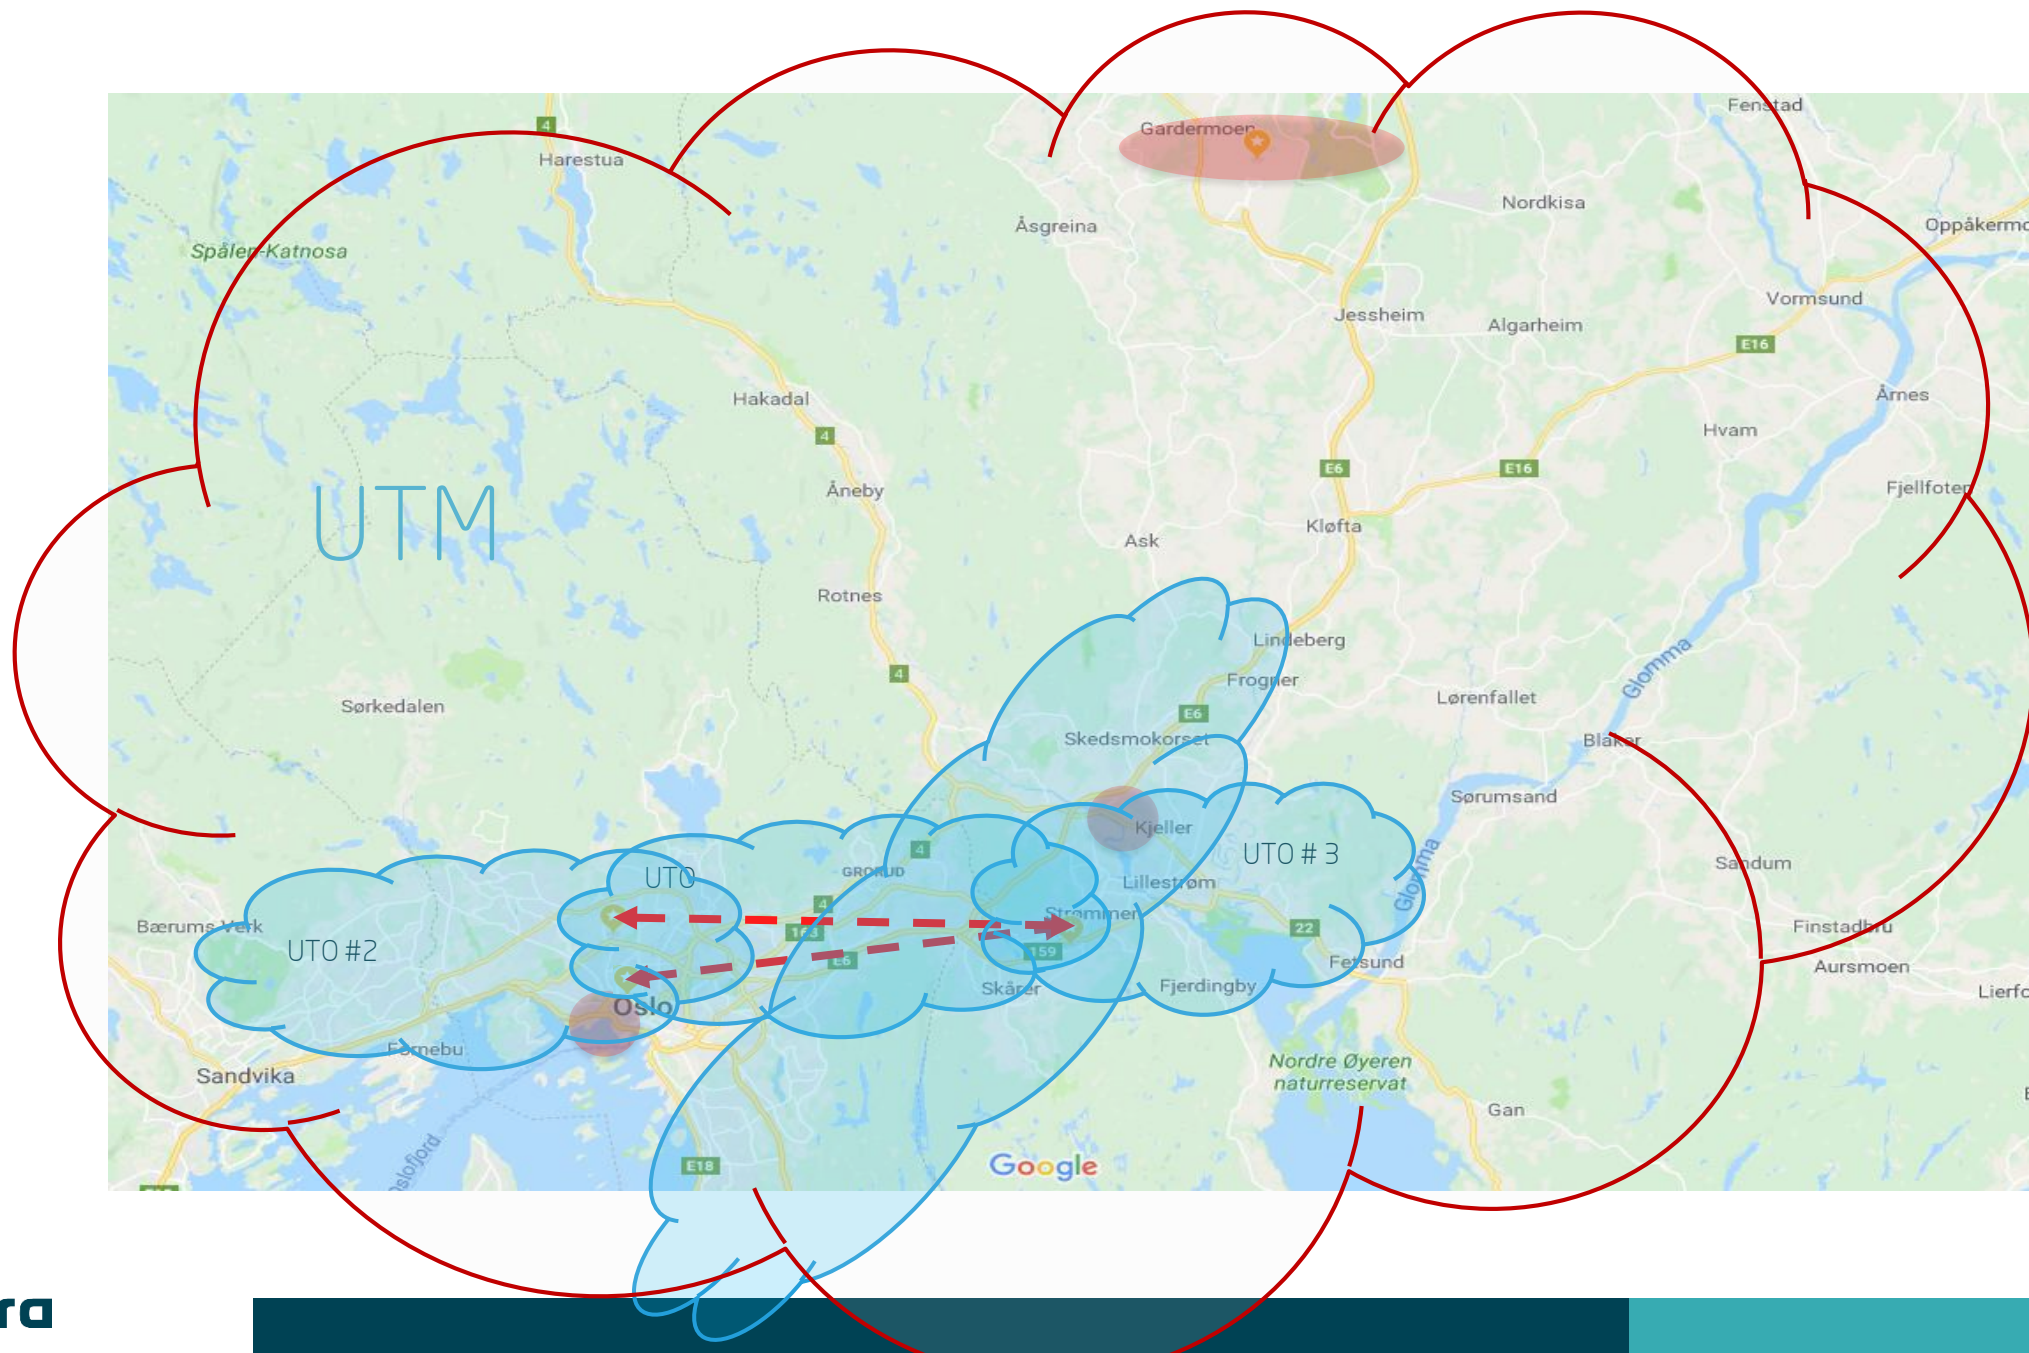

Indra Navia has systems at 1200 airports in 120 countries

Remote Tower

Indra in UTM

Landing aircraft

SCAT-I Approval Program

- Indra has worked with FAA from 1998 to 2004 on the GBAS SCAT-I approval program
- SDA by Norwegian CAA in 2005 and first system in operation in 2007
- Implementation of the SCAT-I system is a success in Norway
- In operation at 17 airports
- SCAT-I scheduled for operation until 2025

Approach Categories

Number of PA Runway Ends:
Worldwide about 3500
Europe: CAT I: ≈ 770
CAT II: ≈ 70
CAT III: ≈ 180

- Scaled illustration

General GBAS architecture – Cat I/II/III landings

Possible architecture for integration of UTM and GBAS for manned and unmanned air traffic.

indra
At the core